DRY GOODS NOTES

We now have oregon grown og. bread flour. the og. chutney we used to carry is no more, i'm looking for another but no luck so far. pine nut prices went way up so i'm ordering small amounts from hummingbird, they are much more affordable than the ones from united. cocoa nibs may be out for a little while.

SPECIAL ORDERS: over the last few months i've been trying to correct the incorrect codes people have been putting on the tags, i was hoping people would realize they need to use the correct codes. well, this is still going on so.....I WILL NO LONGER MAKE THESE CORRECTIONS. if you use the wrong code i will not order the item. the process took time, phone calls etc. i think my time is better spent taking care of more aspects of my job; checking the wish list more often, for one. So please be more careful when filling out your special order tag. thank you. - sue

WHO'S WHO AT GROWERS?

Steve Esses is. He is the Tuesday closer and often comes in early to help, too. He moved to Eugene 3 years ago, asked around and found Growers six months later. He shops for himself and then shares meals with his roommates, one of whom is also a Growers goer. Steve's favorite thing to find is the eggplants. His staples are beans and flours. Passions outside of Growers? He loves practicing his jokes on the middle school children he busses to and fro school. They often ask him to play the radio, which he only does if they answer his trivia questions correctly. Sample question on an election day: What US candidate got over a million votes while in Federal Prison? Answers: Nixon, Clinton, then it was googled and they came up with Eugene Victor Debbs. What party? Googled-- Socialist. A quote: If voting changed anything, they'd outlaw it. Emma Goldwin. Now, about Growers: The food is great and the prices are too. It's the best place to shop in town versus, Mkt of Choice for example, because it's not just a commercial outlet. It's a place for building community. Supermarkets aren't designed for a relaxing shopping experience with kids. Families and kids are welcome here. Thanks, Steve. - Emily Ellowen Nance

OFFICES FOR RENT

The Growers Market Building has two adjoining offices for rent. One is 322 sq ft and rents for $220 per month and the other is 187 sq ft and rents for $135 per month. The two offices may be leased together or separately. Preference will be given to non-profits. Contact Edward at growmgr@gmail.com.

HERB CLASSES

Sunnyside Herbs will be starting its classes for 2011 on Sunday, Feb. 20th. The first level is 5 weeks long and will cover basics of fundamental herbal skills such as: cultivation and ethical harvesting of herbs, making medicinal preparations, basics of botany, plant identification, creating an herbal library and organoleptic skills. Classes are held in my home and garden in Corvallis. There are brochures with more info on the bulletin board at growers. You can contact me at jacimck@hotmail.com or 541-758-9156. - Jaci (McKamey) Guerena
