DRY GOODS NOTES

here are some updates: og raw sugar supply is a bit tight right now, the folks at earthly gourmet said their shipment should be in stock by early november; tamari miso may be out of stock for a couple more weeks; coconut bliss' coconut milk supply was drastically cut a few months ago, they have worked out a supply deal and will be bringing back more of their blends two at a time, this will take a little while; no bar code og unbleached flour is back (thank you humming bird); ginger cubes are still out of stock, no news on when they will be back.

tips for making check out easier and faster: have your 'pumpkin card' ready, make sure you write down prices for the bulk goods you are buying and try to fill your bags as your items are checked. thank you thank you.

every so often i see a 'growers moment'. last week was one of those times. two volunteers were sweeping the floor (and doing a terrific job), they introduced themselves only to find out they both had the same name and same spelling. they got a real kick out of that one and you can believe they won't forget the other's name. welcome to each carey!

volunteering is fun, you get to take part in a lively group of dedicated people and get a little discount as well. so step up and volunteer. if you have a special skill you would like to offer talk with a co-ordinator, thanks so much. sue

IN TIME FOR HALLOWE'EN

We have a new product – separately packaged Reeds Ginger Chews in the bulk goods section. Also look for yummy gummy drops for children who don't want to much tang.
